Best Practices (I): Mentoring System:-

Mentoring is a powerful tool for personal and professional development. Here are some advantages of setting up an effective mentoring system:

1. Clear Objectives: Define clear objectives and goals for the mentoring program. Whether it's skill development, career guidance, or personal growth, clarity helps mentors and mentees focus their efforts.
2. Matching Mentors and Mentees: Match mentors and mentees thoughtfully based on their goals, interests, and personalities. Compatibility can significantly enhance the effectiveness of the mentoring relationship.
3. Establishing Trust: Foster an environment of trust and confidentiality where mentees feel comfortable discussing their challenges and seeking guidance without fear of judgment.
4. Structured Framework: Provide a structured framework or guidelines for the mentoring process. This could include meeting frequency, duration, topics to cover, and expectations from both parties.
5. Goal Setting and Monitoring Progress: Encourage mentees to set SMART goals (Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Relevant, Time-bound) and regularly monitor progress. This helps in tracking development and staying focused.
6. Feedback Mechanism: Establish a feedback mechanism for both mentors and mentees to provide input on the effectiveness of the mentoring relationship and the program itself. This allows for continuous improvement.
7. Flexibility: Recognize that mentoring relationships can evolve over time. Allow flexibility for mentors and mentees to adjust their approach as needs change and new opportunities arise.
8. Celebrating Successes: Acknowledge and celebrate achievements and milestones reached through the mentoring process. Positive reinforcement motivates mentees and reinforces the value of the program.

9. Continuous Support: Offer ongoing support and guidance to both mentors and mentees throughout the duration of the mentoring relationship. This ensures that challenges are addressed promptly and successes are maximized.

By implementing these best practices, organizations can create a nurturing and effective mentoring system that benefits both mentors and mentees, contributing to overall growth and development within the organization.

A Policy Framework and Guidelines for Identifying and Supporting Slow and Advanced/Fast Learners in the CSE Department

• Introduction:

In the realm of the Teaching and Learning process within the CSE Department, educators encounter a spectrum of student capabilities. Some exhibit rapid understanding and learning, while others may grapple with slower comprehension of instructions. The diverse needs of students require varying levels of guidance and effort. As the journey into higher education, especially in the context of undergraduate and graduate programs, unfolds, faculty members must keenly discern the learning attitudes and habits of their students. This differentiation is essential to ensure that attention is not lost on slow learners and advanced learners are adequately challenged.

The primary aim of these guidelines is to pinpoint both slow and advanced learners within the undergraduate (UG) and postgraduate (PG) programs offered by the CSE Department. Additionally, these guidelines propose tailored support activities for each group. By implementing these guidelines, teaching departments can effectively mentor their students and monitor their progress, contributing to an inclusive and supportive educational environment.

• Process Input:

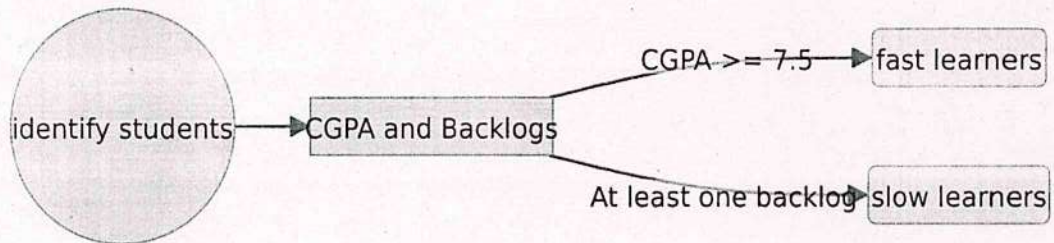

In initiating the identification of slow and advanced learners, critical inputs include:

- Previous semester results.
- Students' Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA).
- Any existing backlogs for students.

Identifying slow and fast learners is crucial within the initial 15 days of the academic year. Key indicators such as previous semester results, students' CGPA, and existing backlogs play a pivotal role in gauging learning pace during this early phase.

- Process of Identification:

The identification process for fast and slow learners in the CSE department involves a systematic approach. It encompasses assessing and determining students' learning levels through a methodical technique.

- Identifying Slow and Fast Learners - Stepwise Process:

1. Collect Information:

- Obtain the CGPA (Cumulative Grade Point Average) for each student.
- Determine if the student has any existing backlogs.

2. CGPA Assessment:

- If a student's CGPA is 7.5 and above, categorize them as a fast learner.

3. Backlog Evaluation:

- If a student has at least one backlog, categorize them as a slow learner.

4. Final Classification:

- Fast Learner: $\text{CGPA} \geq 7.5$ (and no backlogs)
- Slow Learner: At least one backlog (irrespective of CGPA)

By systematically assessing each student's CGPA and backlog status, this process allows for the clear identification of fast and slow learners in the CSE department.

- Activities for Fast learners:

- Activities for Slow Learners:

• Documents To Be Maintained:

- Student Counselling/Mentorship Card.
- Previous Results of University Examinations.
- Certificates of Co-Curricular and Extra-Curricular Activities.
- Certifications of Sports Participations.
- Certificates of Technical Events and Coding Club Membership.
- Volunteer Certificates.
- Certificates for Social Activities.
- Other Technical Certifications.

Activity Report 2023-24

Impact of Activity:-

- Plastic awareness activities help educate students and the community about the negative environmental consequences of plastic pollution. This heightened awareness can lead to a change in behavior and habits when it comes to plastic usage.
- As people become more aware of the issues surrounding plastic pollution, they are likely to make more conscious choices to reduce their plastic consumption. This can result in decreased demand for single-use plastics and plastic packaging.
- Plastic awareness activities can encourage individuals to adopt more sustainable practices, such as using reusable bags, containers, and water bottles. These behavioral changes can have a significant positive impact on reducing plastic waste.
- Initiatives like clean-up drives and plastic-free campus campaigns contribute to a cleaner and more environmentally friendly campus environment. Reduced plastic waste and improved waste management practices lead to a visually appealing and healthier college campus.
