Q.1.

i) Au is an example of Unstable Film.

ii) Cu piece acts as cathod in the case of H₂ evolution method.

iii) d) All of these.

iv) A good fuel should have High ignition temperature.

Q. 2.

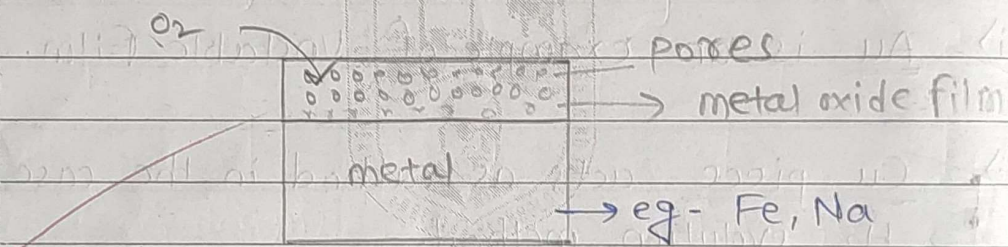

⇒ Explain stable & unstable film

→ The given types of films are included in 'Dry corrosion': i.e. the corrosion occurs in absence of liquid.

① Stable film - The metal gives 2 electrons and it combine with oxygen, therefore corrosion occurs.

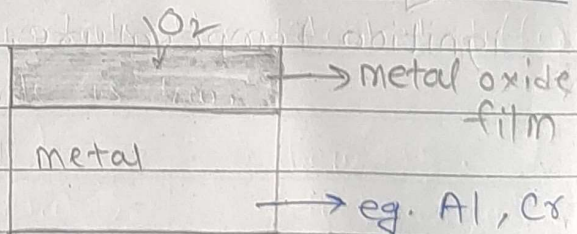

This film stable in nature. i.e. it does not back it into pure form of metal. It has two types.

i) Porous film - The film includes pores or holes that O_2 enters in metal surface.

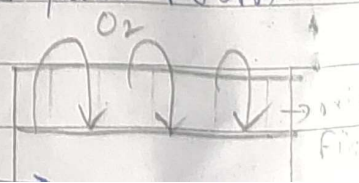

In this type of film O_2 enters in the pores and hence metal get corroded.

ii) Non-Porous film - The film does not include any pores or holes. Hence the corrosion is not occurred.

② Unstable film - This film unstable in nature i.e. the metal back into its pure form. Hence corrosion is not occurred.

eg. Au, Pt

b)

Corrosion-

The destruction of any metal by the chemical action from surrounding environment is called corrosion.

Cause of Corrosion-

Every metal is unstable in nature; Hence it readily combine with oxygen to form stable product.

Therefore to achieve stability corrosion occurs.

For eg.

1) Black Colour on Ag.

2) Brown Colour on Cu.

* Effects of Corrosion-

1) Due to corrosion maintenance cost of equipment increases.

2) Due to corrosion production cost of equipment increases.

3) Due to corrosion basic fundamental properties of metal get changed.

4) Due to corrosion size and ~~spe~~ shape of equipment get changed.

5) Due to corrosion color of metal is changed.

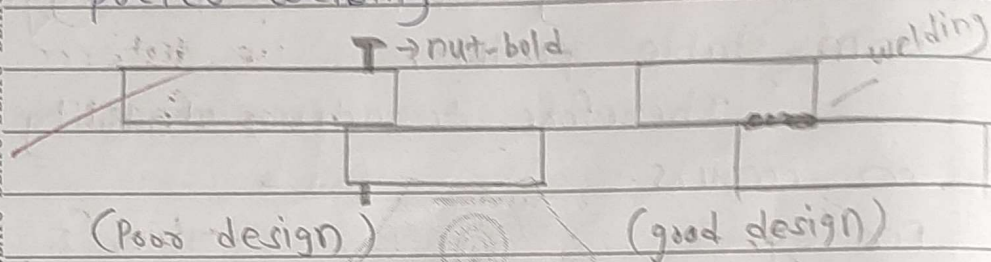

6) Due to corrosion strength and toughness of metal or equipment decreases.

7) Due to corrosion life-span of metal or equipment decreases.

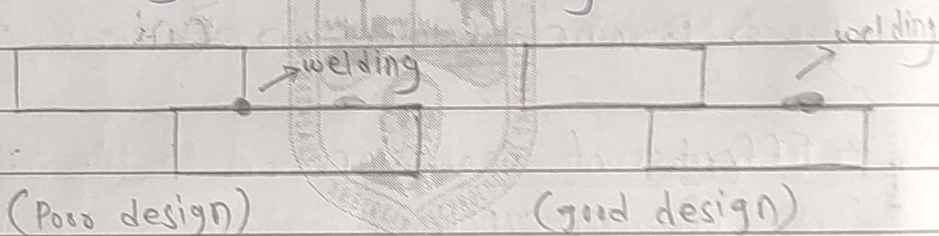

→ To protect ~~ess~~ metal from corrosion following things are important:

1) The metal should be free from impurities. i.e. the metal is in pure form.

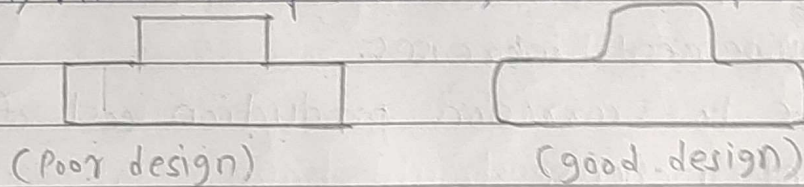

2) To joint the two metals avoid nut-bolts. prefer welding.

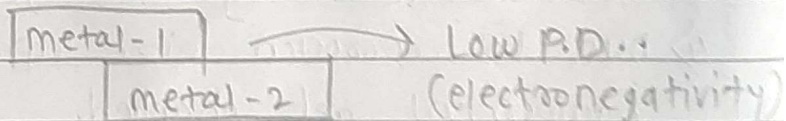

3) Welding should be away from corners.

4) Avoid sharp cuts & corners. prefer bends.

5) To join two metals the potential difference betⁿ two metals is low.

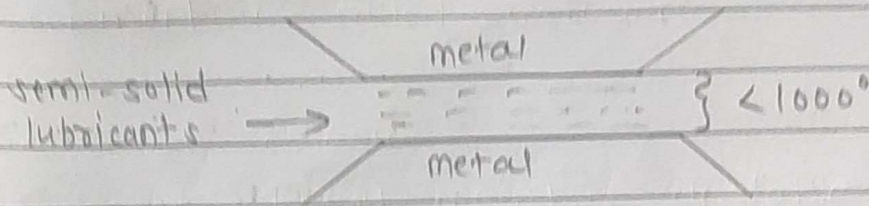

6) To avoid corrosion our metal should be free from dust & dirt particles.

7)

1) Thin / Boundary lubrication-

High Load & slow speed.

2) 1) In this process the distance between two oppositely moving surfaces is less than 1000°A .

2) This process is applicable for high load & slow speed condition.

3) For this process semi-solid lubricants are used.

4) Examples of semi-solid lubricants are grease, wax, vasaline, soap etc.

5) This semi-solid lubricants are used in an heavy machines like truck, tractor, road roller, etc.

Respected Sir,
Our B. E. Student from electrical department (Ms. Tejaswini Rangarao Kekare, PRN - 51621720171129310018) got selected in Wipro technologies, Pune and for background verification she want original mark sheets (Hard/Soft copy) of summer semester examinations 2019, summer semester examinations 2020 and Winter semester examinations 2020 on urgent basis.
So we request you to kindly send us Hard/Soft copy of original mark sheets as early as possible.

Thanking you,
