Reflex- Technical Symposium

Reflex- Technical Symposium

The Institute hosts "REFLEX," an annual National Level Technical Symposium aimed at fostering students' holistic development. It serves as a platform for students to showcase both their technical prowess and management acumen. To ensure its smooth execution, various committees are formed, each with distinct responsibilities.

Guided by faculty members, including the Program Conveyer, Director, and President, these committees work in coordination. The Invitation and Publicity Committee leads student registration efforts and campaigns to attract participants from nearby institutes. Simultaneously, the Sponsorship Committee secures support from local companies, technical institutes, and event management groups, demonstrating strong communication and persuasive skills.

The Main Function Committee manages critical tasks such as vendor selection, event sequencing, dignitary seating, and technical arrangements, providing valuable experience in negotiation and event planning. Members of the Paper Presentation and Project Competition Event Committee ensure the smooth conduct of technical events within set timelines, showcasing adeptness in time management and rule adherence.

The Refreshment Committee efficiently caters to participants' needs, managing suppliers and large crowds with finesse, highlighting organizational and control skills. The Prize Distribution Committee designs trophies and orchestrates their distribution during the valedictory function, emphasizing synchronization in event management.

Overall, "REFLEX" offer students a platform to hone leadership, verbal communication, marketing, time management, and negotiation skills. The Institute's emphasis on decentralized work and participative management enables students to demonstrate leadership potential while contributing to the event's success.
